NEW YORK ARTIST OPENS SHOW TUESDAY

Artist TOM KASTNER will open an exhibit of his new work with a "Gallery Talk" and reception in Reed Hall 160 on Tuesday, April 25 at noon. The artist claims "He had no interest in art as a child; his only memory is eviction from seventh grade art class for hurling balls of rubber cement about the room." Prior to graduating with a degree in behavioral sciences, he began his artistic career. He apprenticed with several well known artists on the New York art scene and began to develop his own iconoclastic style. In Tuesday's talk, Kastner will expound on his own inimitable ideas and the world of art in general. He currently shows with the Taliesen Gallery in New York City. The exhibition will run through Sunday, May 14. Gallery viewing hours are Sundays from 2-4 and various hours during the week. Hours are posted around the campus or call Ext. 415 for a complete list of times.

"SHAKESPEARE'S RUSSIAN LEGACY" IS TOPIC OF PROGRAM

Tschaikovsky composed a theme to Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet", and many other Russian artists, dramatists, and composers were inspired by the work of William Shakespeare. Dr. Maria Ignatieva, Visiting Assistant Professor of Theater at OSU Lima, will explore Shakespeare's influence on the arts in Russia in a multi-media program entitled "SHAKESPEARE'S RUSSIAN LEGACY" on Thursday, April 27 at noon in Reed Hall Room 160. She will highlight examples from the theater, music and dance with the use of video and tape.
